REPORT: SESSION WISE

Day 1 (09 November 2021)

Session 1: Dr. Dickens Leonard - "Shadow Modernity: Critiquing Textual Authority and Exploring Social Visions"

The colonial construction of the caste system and power relations associated with the elite collaborations were discussed in this session. The speaker has also attempted to connect modernity with the concept of shadow. A novel concept of Shadow Modernity was introduced to the participants. There were also deliberations on racial myth with special reference to Aryans. How colonialism influenced national identity was another thought of discussion. The session was extremely comprehensive in the information provided, particularly key arguments on identity formation vis-a-vis politically imagined communities. Nations and nationalities are products of discourse, constructed by a collaboration of colonial and native elites in the project of modernity was a key point of argument. The speaker also showed that Anti-caste movements, feminist movements, and other social movements can function as "resistant genealogies" to the grand narrative of nationalism and to modernist teleologies. Though grounded in sociological and historical analysis, the speaker's emphasis on figuration and narrativisation serve to highlight the relevance of this topic to literary and cultural studies. The post colonialism and subaltern studies have moved beyond Bhabha, Said and Spivak and newer horizons were opened to the speakers. The idea of Europeans colonizing each other through the two wars. The multiple notions of nation as a construct with regard to caste, race and religion were also discussed

Day 1: Session 2

Dr. Ipshita Chanda - "Teaching Plurality"

The session has given clarity as to how we can locate literature in the stream of humanities. The session gave valuable insight on humanities and important ideas like pluralism and multiculturalism. The activity associated with fictional characters was an engaging way to start the session. How literature acknowledges the existence of differences and plurality of being were also discussed.

The fact that Comparative literature can help teachers of monolingual literatures (like English literature) by opening up the plurality of texts and their contexts through the process of interpretation were informed to the participants. The plurality of readings comes from the inherent plurality of human experience, and thus a literature teacher's most important job is to equip the student to understand other worlds through the medium of language, without falling into the pattern of othering and objectification that have characterised the history of monolingual literary studies.

Day 2 (10 November 2021) : Session 3

Dr. Saikat Banerjee - "The Short Story: Genre and Trends"

A comprehensive history of the genre short story was effectively presented. The speaker also explained the evolution of short story and how it has undergone dramatic changes over time and how in the past few decades, digital technology has changed this genre with the evolution of cyberfiction. The resource person has also provided abundant information on short story writers around the world and from India and enumerated the new trends in short stories. Short stories, which were initially popular in the 19th century, are now making a comeback with a proliferation of new and innovative themes including ecology, trauma, disability, pandemic experiences, science fiction, etc. The genre of the short story as a form of expression and their cognitive histories were explained perfectly. From writing niches to analysing distinct literary perspectives of authors world-wide, each of these elements were explored to the core.

Day 2, Session: 4

Dr. Saugata Bhaduri - "Ecopoetics, Posthumanism, Biopolitics"

An excellent historical and conceptual overview of the critical frameworks of ecocriticism, posthumanism, and biopolitics with a generous reference list to aid neophytes interested in the area had been the highlight of this session. Ecocriticism is not merely a critical perspective on the relationship between human beings and nature, but rather an entire philosophy or system of thought reconceptualising the entire notion of subjectivity in the age of posthumanism and technology. A clear picture of the concepts like ecopoetics, ecosophy, shallow ecology, deep ecology was also given

Day 3 (11 November 2021)

Session 5

Fr. Francis M. Peter S.J. - "Education in the Emerging Normal"

The session gave an accurate picture about the educational system with all its flaws. The activity that dealt with the characteristics of genz was all the more interesting. The key take away from this session is that the present education system is redundant and fails to understand the generation and the needs of the new age learners as well as the demands of the 21st century. The speaker also talked about various strategies to improve classroom experience. He has given different ideas of various teaching models rising from traditional to upcoming models of teaching. Flipped model class is the suggested successful teaching method for the future. The resource person presented a much modernised perspective towards education along with an insight into several trends and developments that can prove to be exceptionally beneficial towards the future. According to the talk, the language teaching (and teaching in general) should take into account the characteristics of the Gen-Z learners as well as the changed circumstances of learning in the post-pandemic age and evolve to become more flexible, effective, and outcome-oriented.

Day 3: Session 6

Dr. Muhammad Afzal - "Cultural Studies in Asia and the Question of Comparative Literature"

The history and methodology of cultural studies in Asia is distinct from those in Europe and America. "Asia" can refer to a diverse set of experiences, however, there is a way of universalising the experience as one of being subjected to capital, though in varying ways, and coming up with a trans-Asian methodology of cultural studies. The talk was a good introduction to cultural studies in Asia, particularly through the history of the inter-Asia cultural studies society. The resource person has also introduced many Indian theorists as well as theories related to South Asian studies. Reading ThejaswiniNiranjana and ParthaChatterjee gave an idea on how to reread South Asian text in relation to nationalism. Making Asia an active participant in historical process by creating new alternative horizon is a move away from Eurocentric method. The session provided a very lively explanation of the cultural - social and literary trends of Asian literature and movements from every perspective possible. From direct examples to textual paradoxes, the overall significance of the topic was marvelously relayed to the viewers. From past to present, from allegorical cinematic influences to sociological theories and much more, the whole session gave an in-depth understanding of Asia literature and its everlasting changes.

Day 4 (12 November 2021)

Session 7: Dr. Swati Moitra - "Ink and Paper: Reading the History of Books"

It was an exceptionally insightful session that provided an in-depth understanding of the history of books. Analysing cultural, gender representations across centuries and explaining their systematic impact and relevance on literature and writing made this an experience that was well worth.

The session confirmed that the book history is not restricted to the history of the material production of books but also to the entire sets of historical and cultural processes resulting in the production, circulation, consumption and study of various kinds of written/spoken texts and media. Digital technology, visualisations, etc can be extremely helpful in understanding the cultural transactions around books.

Day 4: Session 8: Dr. Elwin Susan John - "Introduction to Skin Studies"

The session gave a clear cut idea on how to approach this new area called skin studies. Skin Studies is not as simplistic as just a critical take on the politics of skin colour. Rather, it takes a hitherto marginalized aspect of the study of the body, one that was considered superficial and peripheral to the sacred body, and by moving it to the centre, revitalises the possibilities of the study of bodies, race, technology, etc. A lucid and inspiring overview of the possibilities of skin studies as a discipline and the conceptual history of skin as an analytic category was given in the session. It is a new /subset of body cultural studies and develops on the understanding the skin as something more than just a covering. The framing of race from a physical attribute/biological standpoint and the immense scope for medical humanities within it was also discussed. It was a well rounded approach towards understanding internalised, externalised and even textual representation of skin studies. The literal relevance of understanding subtle racism throughout history was well documented. The explanation of Franz Fanon's ' Black Skin White Mask ' left an everlasting impression.

Day 5 (13 November 2021)

Session 9 - "Research Ethics" - Dr. Joseph Dorairaj

The session explained the different ways in which a researcher can be caught for plagiarism and how to avoid the same. Comprehensive details about research methodology and research ethics were also given. Many aspects of research ethics are unknown to our researchers. We need better awareness and more stringent measures to guard against unethical practices in research. A clear and detailed presentation on various aspects of research ethics, including many that researchers take for granted was thus delivered.

Day 6 (15 November 2021)

Session 10 - "Research in Memory Studies: Methods and Scope" - Dr. Avishek Parui

The session gave an idea about memory studies, and trauma theory. The viewing of culture as a machine actively involved in processes of remembering and forgetting was well presented. The session talked about the emerging trends and the evolution of memory studies and its psychological proximity. Memory studies is an interdisciplinary area combining psychology, neurology, anthropology, sociology, cultural studies, etc and both memory and forgetting as cultural processes of creation and fabrication were well enumerated in this session

Day 6:

Session 11 - "Circus Theatre" - Dr. Abhilash Pillai

The possibilities of theatre and other arts in revitalising the fading circus industry was explained. Dr. Pillai's personal involvement in theatre in general and circus productions in particular brought a different perspective to the field. A slightly more in-depth engagement with the academic side of circus would have rounded off the session well. In fact he opened up a way to include Circus theatre in pedagogy which is a promising thought.

The FDP culminated with an official valedictory function with Ms. Chaithanya Elsa Achankunju, HOD, Dept. of English expressing the gratitude to all the key speakers and coordinators on 15 November 2021.

Dear Sir
This is in continuation of our telephonic conversation on 20 June 2021 regarding the conduct of an FDP in English language, literature and cultural studies by Mar Thoma College for Women, Perumbavoor, in association with STRIDE, MGU. The FDP aims to engage with the most recent developments in the field of English language teaching, literature and cultural studies. Since the FDP engages with various fields in the arena of English studies, it would benefit teachers and scholars of English from various institutions and across sub-disciplines. As discussed during our conversation, the FDP is being planned for August and the duration is 7 days, stretching from 4 August 2021 to 10 August 2021.

The tentative plan is as follows:

Tentative title : Contemporary Trends in English Language, Literature and Cultural Studies

Proposed Dates: 4 August 2021 to 10 August 2021

Day 1

Two sessions on English Language Teaching (English as Second Language/ Materials Development)

Day 2

Two sessions on English Literature Today/ Teaching English Literature

Day 3

Two sessions on Linguistics (Teaching Morphology, Phonology, Syntax/ Teaching Semantics and Pragmatics)

Day 4

Two sessions on Translation Studies / Regional Writings in Translation

Day 5

Two sessions on Cultural Studies (Recent developments in critical cultural studies/ The Interface between Literature, Cultural Studies and Philosophy)

Day 6

Two sessions on New Trends in World Literature/Comparative Literature

Day 7

Two sessions on the Teaching and Research Practices in the Humanities/ The Future of the Humanities in the Post-Covid World

This is the tentative proposal. The formal proposal shall be sent as soon as approval is granted. Kindly inform us if any changes are necessary.

Awaiting your response,
Yours sincerely,

Your best take away from this FDP

- All the distinguished guests have taken us miles ahead in the genre of Research. All the talks were really impressive and worthy enough to listen to it.
- Skin Studies
Circus and Theatre
Book History Studies
- The various trends in research mainly new areas like Skin Studies, Book history studies and memory studies
- Discussions on post humanism and skin studies
- A kaleidoscopic vision of the recent trends in English Literature. Really a literary extravaganza.
- Skin Studies, theatre and circus, memory Studies etc were new areas for me...
- Benefited alot for my research
- Perspectives. Old ones renewed and new ones discovered.
- It helped develop an insight about the various recent developments in literature and literary theory. It was quite interesting as well as informative since it has incorporated lectures on different areas of literature.
- New topics like skin and memory studies.
- It was a wonderful FDP Programme. It is difficult to simply encapsulate the extent of information/knowledge that was imparted via this programme. All i can say is that each speaker presented a unique perspective and added to my knowlege.

Scope and need for Trans-disciplinary research

- it was an immensely useful week iwllh certain new competences added
- Certain standout sessions that brought newer perspectives into our consciousness. Skin studies, memory, ecopoetics, book history, these are upcoming fields allied to the Humanities and the inclusion of these topics was the highlight of the FDP for me.
- Session on Skin Studies.
- Each session waz exceptional in its own ways. Each session had something new to provide.
- An overall awareness about the different trends in literature
- Excellent choice of topics
- Got orientation on diverse aspects for research in literature
- Very innovative and latest trends of literature could be understood.
- A compact overview of several cutting edge areas in the humanities and literary studies, and an excellent set of suggested readings.
- Got a better perspective

The session that was most beneficial for you

- The session I liked the most was the session in shortstories. It opend up a feasible area of research . I found the contents the most beneficial because of the future it opened up in research. It was in terms with my research interests.

1. Dr. Saikat Banerjee - "The Short Story: Genre and Trends"
2. Dr. Saugata Bhaduri - "Ecopoetics, Posthumanism, Biopolitics"
3. Dr. Elwin Susan John - "Introduction to Skin Studies"
4. Dr. Swati Moitra - "Ink and Paper: Reading the History of Books"

- The session on short stories
- Memory Studies
- Dr Saikat Banerjee-Short Stories within World literature

- Dr. Saugata Bhaduri - "Ecopoetics, Posthumanism, Biopolitics"
- Dr. Elwin Susan John - "Introduction to Skin Studies"
- Dr. Avishek Parui's session on Memory Studies

- I found the last session on Circus Theatre was most beneficial for me since am so interested in theatre and recent researches in theatre.

- Avishek parui
- All the sessions were incomparable. Yet, the session dealt by Dr. Elwin Susan John on Skin studies took me with many new insights.
- New Vistas in English Language Teaching Research and Research Ethics
- Prof. Saugata Bhaduri's session on Ecopoetics

- bhadun

- Cultural studies sessions.

- Ecopoetics
- Book Histories
- Skin Studies

- Session 3

- Book history

- The session on skin studies

- Skin studies

- Ecopoetics, Post Humanism, Biopolitics... because I wish to do my research in that area

- Ecopoetics, posthumanism and biopolitics

- Dr. Bhaduri, hands down. I am not familiar at all with ecopoetics and his comprehensive engagement with trends in the field, along with the reading list, made the session academically dense but so very worthwhile. I shall definitely be reading up more on his given readings and into the topic.

Your knowledge level in the subject areas of the FDP when you joined the Programme

- I had least knowledge on Skin studies and book history . Haven't even heard of those areas.
- Honestly, barring one or two areas there were few that I had followed up in reading, So the FDP was definitely very beneficial.
- Average
- Basic
- Average
- Cinema, short story, plurality, and skin studies were some of the fields I had a working knowledge of. Everything else was completely new to me!
- Very poor compared to the new level
- Many areas that I listened to was almost new.
- Most of the sessions were novel and have helped me understand the diverse areas of research possibility

- Certain topics of the FDP like Ecopoetics, skin studies, book history studies, and memory studies were completely new to me. I had working knowledge of comparative literature and adequate knowledge of cultural studies.
- Certain areas discussed here were not familiar to me
- Most of the areas that were discussed were relatively new to me. I was a novice to these trends.
- 5
- I had no idea about 'Skin studies' or atleast that it is a subset of body theories. Despite my substantial knowledge in digital humanities, I believe Dr. Saugata and his enthusiastic presentation has made me rethink about certain notions.
- Beginner level
- Was limited
- A very vague superficial idea
- I was not so aware of some areas like skin studies and circus theatre.
- Had an overall idea but that was vague.
- Average
- Good

Your knowledge level now

- Have got sound understanding
- I have a clearer sense of topics like ecopoetics, skin studies and memory studies now and a drive to learn more about these areas based on the readings suggested by the resource persons.
- Good
- Better. General ideas gathered from each topic. The choice of topics were excellent and research into is novel and vibrant.
- Ecopoetics and book history I shall be definitely going back and delving more into.
- Good
- I have learnt a lot and I believe this will help me with my research in future.
- Got an overall idea about skin studies, memory studies, circus and theatre
- I could update my knowledge level in the recent trends in literature.
- I have a basic awareness about the different trends in literature today. Also the talks have planted in me the seeds of enthusiasm to go for more in these trends.
- Now, the FDP has provided with me many insights. It has made me to think in new modes which I haven't been familiar with. This is worthy attending.
- At least a fair idea about all the topics discussed is definitely now in my command. My choices for further reading have increased manifold.
- Opened up divergent research possibilities.
Gave a panoramic vision of the scope and potential for interdisciplinary and multi-disciplinary academic exposure.
- Intermediary
- The program introduced many new areas and skin studies and book history studies were two among them. The ppt and reading material that was shared later has provided a good material to built up on.
- Got a panoramic view on Recent Trends in English Literature particularly on Skin studies, Circus and Theatre and Book History Studies
- Better
- Improved
- Has improved
- Could get introduced to many novel areas and reading about it now.

Your overall impression of the FDP

- Excellent
- A knowledge enriching programme
- interactive and interesting
- Excellent.
- It was organized well and the lectures were arranged in such a way that everyone could feel the differences and innovations that are happening in literature.

...ed it as a offline experience. Very exceptional and selective sessions.
good

. Very Good. Some sessions were exemplary while some failed to make an impression. But the excellent ones did the trick for others as well.

its good to provide a good reading list for each discourse also the contact details of the Resource Persons

. Well organized faculty development program that covered new trends in English literature....As a teacher and researcher it is very beneficial for me....

. Very well organized and resourceful speakers

. Excellent ..

. Great co ordination and excellent selection of topics

. Well- organised

. Brilliantly executed. From the cherry-picked Resource persons to the program chart and the quiz and feedback sessions made available during the entire programme is commendable. Kudos to the entire team,

. Well-managed, responsive and alert team, commendable curation of sessions, and some active Q&A sessions elevated this FDP.

. Enriching program. Welcoming more programs like this. The course was very innovative and the topic were current . Happy with the program. Thanking the coordinators for arranging this so systematically.

. Well orchestrated and well implemented

. Excellent sessions, interesting presentations.

. Impressive

. Excellent programme.

. Seven days was the perfect duration for such an intensive refresher course to put us in touch with several new areas in literary and cultural studies. The selection of topics and resource persons was top notch, and the daily schedules were perfect: intensive without being taxing. The organising team was also extremely warm and helpful, and the LMS interface was simple and user friendly.

. Excellent in:

Organization

Selection of topics

Selection of RP

Interaction with the participants.

. A meticulously planned programme with an interesting and impressive ensemble.

Your valuable suggestions

. Make it possible on weekends.

. The sessions were really good. Looking forward to many more such sessions in future.

. Could have added paper presentation sessions for the participants too.

. The session was well organized. The lectures were also enlightening

. It would have been much more effective if it was arranged as an offline programme. So looking forward for such an event.

. Some sessions should have been longer.

. Greater publicity of the FDP might have brought in more participants from other parts of the country, which is always nice for different perspectives.

. Final quiz had a lot of errors could have been a bit more careful there.

. Daily quizzes kept us on our toes. Since final quiz was due could have avoided them i feel.

. Would have loved to hear about topics like post humanism, post truth and all in detail

. technical glitch

. Do plan for further programmes like this.

. Nil

. The program was good. It would be nice if the recording are uploaded in Youtube channel.

. Keep up the good work. Special congrats to Chaitanya and her team of coordinators and tech support.

. One session per day

. Kindly conduct such programs in the future as well

. The response time could have been increased in the first place itself. The rest was really good.

. If the sessions were in the evening, it would have been easier to attend the sessions.

. Well charted out programme . Kudos to it's coordinators and Team FDP.. Hope similar, useful programmes in future too.... A big thank

YOU SAID:

- Google forms would have been better.
- Can give this kinds of opportunities to the student community as well.
- My only suggestion is to continue organising such wonderful programmes.
- Well done
- The time span for completion of the quiz could be extended a little more

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

HIGHLIGHTS OF FDP “ RECENT ADVANCES IN PHYSICS”

ORGANISER	DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS
ASSOCIATING PARTNER	STRIDE (UGC-MHRD), MGU, KOTTAYAM
BENEFICIARY	FACULTIES OF PHYSICS DEPARTMENT
YEAR	2021
SCOPE	TO CREATE AWARENESS ABOUT RECENT TRENDS IN PHYSICS
COORDINATORS	(1) Dr. ANUPAMA P (HOD, DEP OF PHYSICS) (2) Dr. RAJANI JACOB (FACULTY, DEP OF PHYSICS) (3) Dr. PAULOSE THOMAS (FACULTY, DEP OF PHYSICS) (4) Dr. MELVY CHANDY (FACULTY, DEP. OF PHYSICS)
DURATION	10 JULY 2021 – 24 JULY 2021
OBJECTIVE	TO CREATE IN DEPTH KNOWLEDGE ON ASTRONOMY, ASTROPHYSICS, FIBRE OPTIC SENSORS, DATA SCIENCE, THIN-FILM TRANSISTORS, NON-LINEAR OPTICS AND VIRTUAL LABS
OUTCOME	THE FACULTIES WERE ABLE TO IMBIBE ADVANCED AND UPDATED RECENT TRENDS IN PHYSICS
DETAILS OF RESOURCE PERSONS	(1) Dr. NINAN SAJEETH PHILIP (2) Dr. SUNEESH MATHEWS (3) Dr. EDAMANA PRASAD (4) Dr. NIKOLAI HLUBEK (5) Dr. BIKAS C DAS (6) Dr. REJI PHILIP (7) Dr. K S SREELATHA (8) Dr. SHAJI N (9) Dr. SENOY THOMAS (10) Dr. T THEIVASANTHI (11) Dr. ASHIM KUMAR PRAMANIK

Refresher Course in Physics

A refresher course in Physics, Recent Advances in Physics was organized by Department of Physics, Mar Thoma College for Women, Perumbavoor in association with STRIDE (UGC-MHRD), Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam, Kerala from 10 July to 24 July 2021 for the teachers. This was the first refresher course which STRIDE MG University organizing in association with an affiliated college. The programme got inaugurated by Dr. V. Shivadasan M.P. Rajyasabha and presided by Prof. Dr. Sabu Thomas, STRIDE Chairman & Vice Chancellor, MG University. The resource persons of this programme were experts from reputed institutions all over India and also from abroad.

Request- Conduct FDP-Dept of Physics, MTCW with STRIDE MGU Rajani/Inbox

DP Dr. Anupama P <anupama.a@marthomacollege.ac> Thu, Jun 3, 2021 at 8:55 PM To: abhilashbabu3700@mgu.ac.in Bcc: rajani.jacob@yahoo.com

Respected Sir,

This is Dr. Anupama P., Asst Prof & HoD, Dept. of Physics, Mar Thoma College for Women, Perumbavoor. I talked with you today regarding conducting an FDP programme in association with STRIDE MGU. We are planning to organize in such a way that it should cover new trends in each branch of Physics on each day with two sessions. I request you to kindly consider our proposal and allow us to organize the programme in association with you. I am hereby writing a small proposal for the programme. If you give permission we will discuss with the resource persons and will give a detailed proposal.

- Planned title : Recent advances in Physics
- Planned date: July 28- 2 August 2021.
- Proposed programme(Dept. of Physics in association with Stride):
- Day 1: Two sessions on Material Science/Nanomaterials
- Day 2: Two sessions on Photonics/New trends in Optoelectronics
- Day 3: Two sessions on Plasma Physics/Laser Induced Plasma
- Day 4: Two sessions on Magnetism/Quantum magnetism/Nanomagnetism
- Day 5: Two sessions on Non linear dynamics/Statistical Physics/thermoelectrics
- Day 6: Two sessions on thin film technology/Solar Cells Superconductivity
- Day 7: Sessions on AstroPhysics/Cosmology

Kindly let me know if I need to submit any more data/proposal in any prescribed format.

Thank You

Dr. Anupama P. Asst prof. & HoD Dept. of Physics Mar Thoma College for Women, Perumbavoor

Programme features

- Duration: 14 days (10 July - 24 July 2021)
- Target Group: Research Scholars and Faculties of Research centres/Schools/Affiliated Colleges of MG University
- Objectives
 - To get insight about recent advances in different areas of Physics
 - To enrich research skills for effective teaching learning processes in Physics
 - To learn Pedagogy for Physics teachers
 - To get an exposure to Virtual Lab
 - To utilize the platform for networking, interacting and collaborating researchers/faculties/scientists
- Duty certificate will be provided as per request in registration form.
- Course certificate will be issued to successful participants which can be used for CAS promotion.
